

title of article

In this month's edition of what's new for designers and developers, we've included lots of new apps for design teams, new design tools, lots of web apps, learning resources, productivity resources, new frameworks, new mobile apps, and much more. And as always, we've also included some awesome new free fonts!

The internal cache has not been built yet. Building the cache will improve the performance of the application and is highly recommended. If you do not want to use the cache, you can permanently disable it in the back end settings.